

Honesty Truth

Year One & Two - Lesson One

Warm Up!

Mexican Wave!

- Students sit in a circle
- Teacher puts hands up in the sky. One by one, students follow, going around the circle.
- Complete three rounds
- Each round, do a new pose - feet out in front of you, hands on knees, hands on feet, hands on shoulders ect.
- CHALLENGE: complete silently and calmly.

Hi! I'm Honest Ollie!
Today, we're going to investigate telling the TRUTH!

Honesty

Learning Intention:

I am learning about honesty

Success Criteria:

- ♥ I can give examples of what honesty is
- ♥ I can discuss why being truthful is important
- ♥ I can explain how honesty is a form of kindness

This Is Because:

- ♥ When we are honest, our friends and families trust and respect us. Honesty helps our minds and bodies feel happier too!

I DO

You Watch 👁️👁️

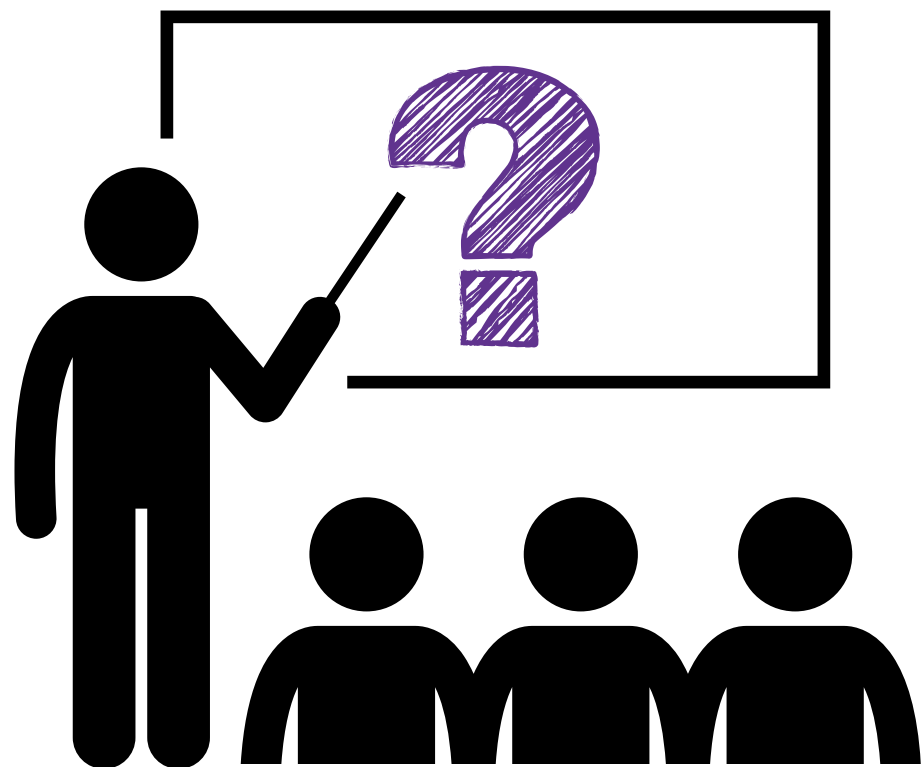

about HONESTY!

- ♥ What does honesty mean to you?
- ♥ Why is honesty or telling the truth important?
- ♥ How does it feel inside of your body to tell the truth?
- ♥ Is it easy to always tell the truth?
- ♥ What is the opposite of honesty?
- ♥ When you are dishonest how does it feel in your body?
- ♥ Why do you think honesty is a form of kindness?

Honesty is...

Whole Class Definition:

Honest Ollie says:
"Honesty is speaking truthfully
and behaving truthfully
even when it is hard.
Speaking truthfully means we
ONLY say what truly happened.
Behaving truthfully means we treat others and their belongings respectfully."

Reading
time

Question Time!

- ♥ What choices did Ben make? Explain.
- ♥ Why do you think he made those choices?
- ♥ When people lie, is it always just to trick people? Discuss.
- ♥ What were the consequences for Ben fibbing?
- ♥ How did that affect Ben, that no one believed him anymore?
- ♥ Do you think Ben would tell stories again? Explain.

The Ripple Effect

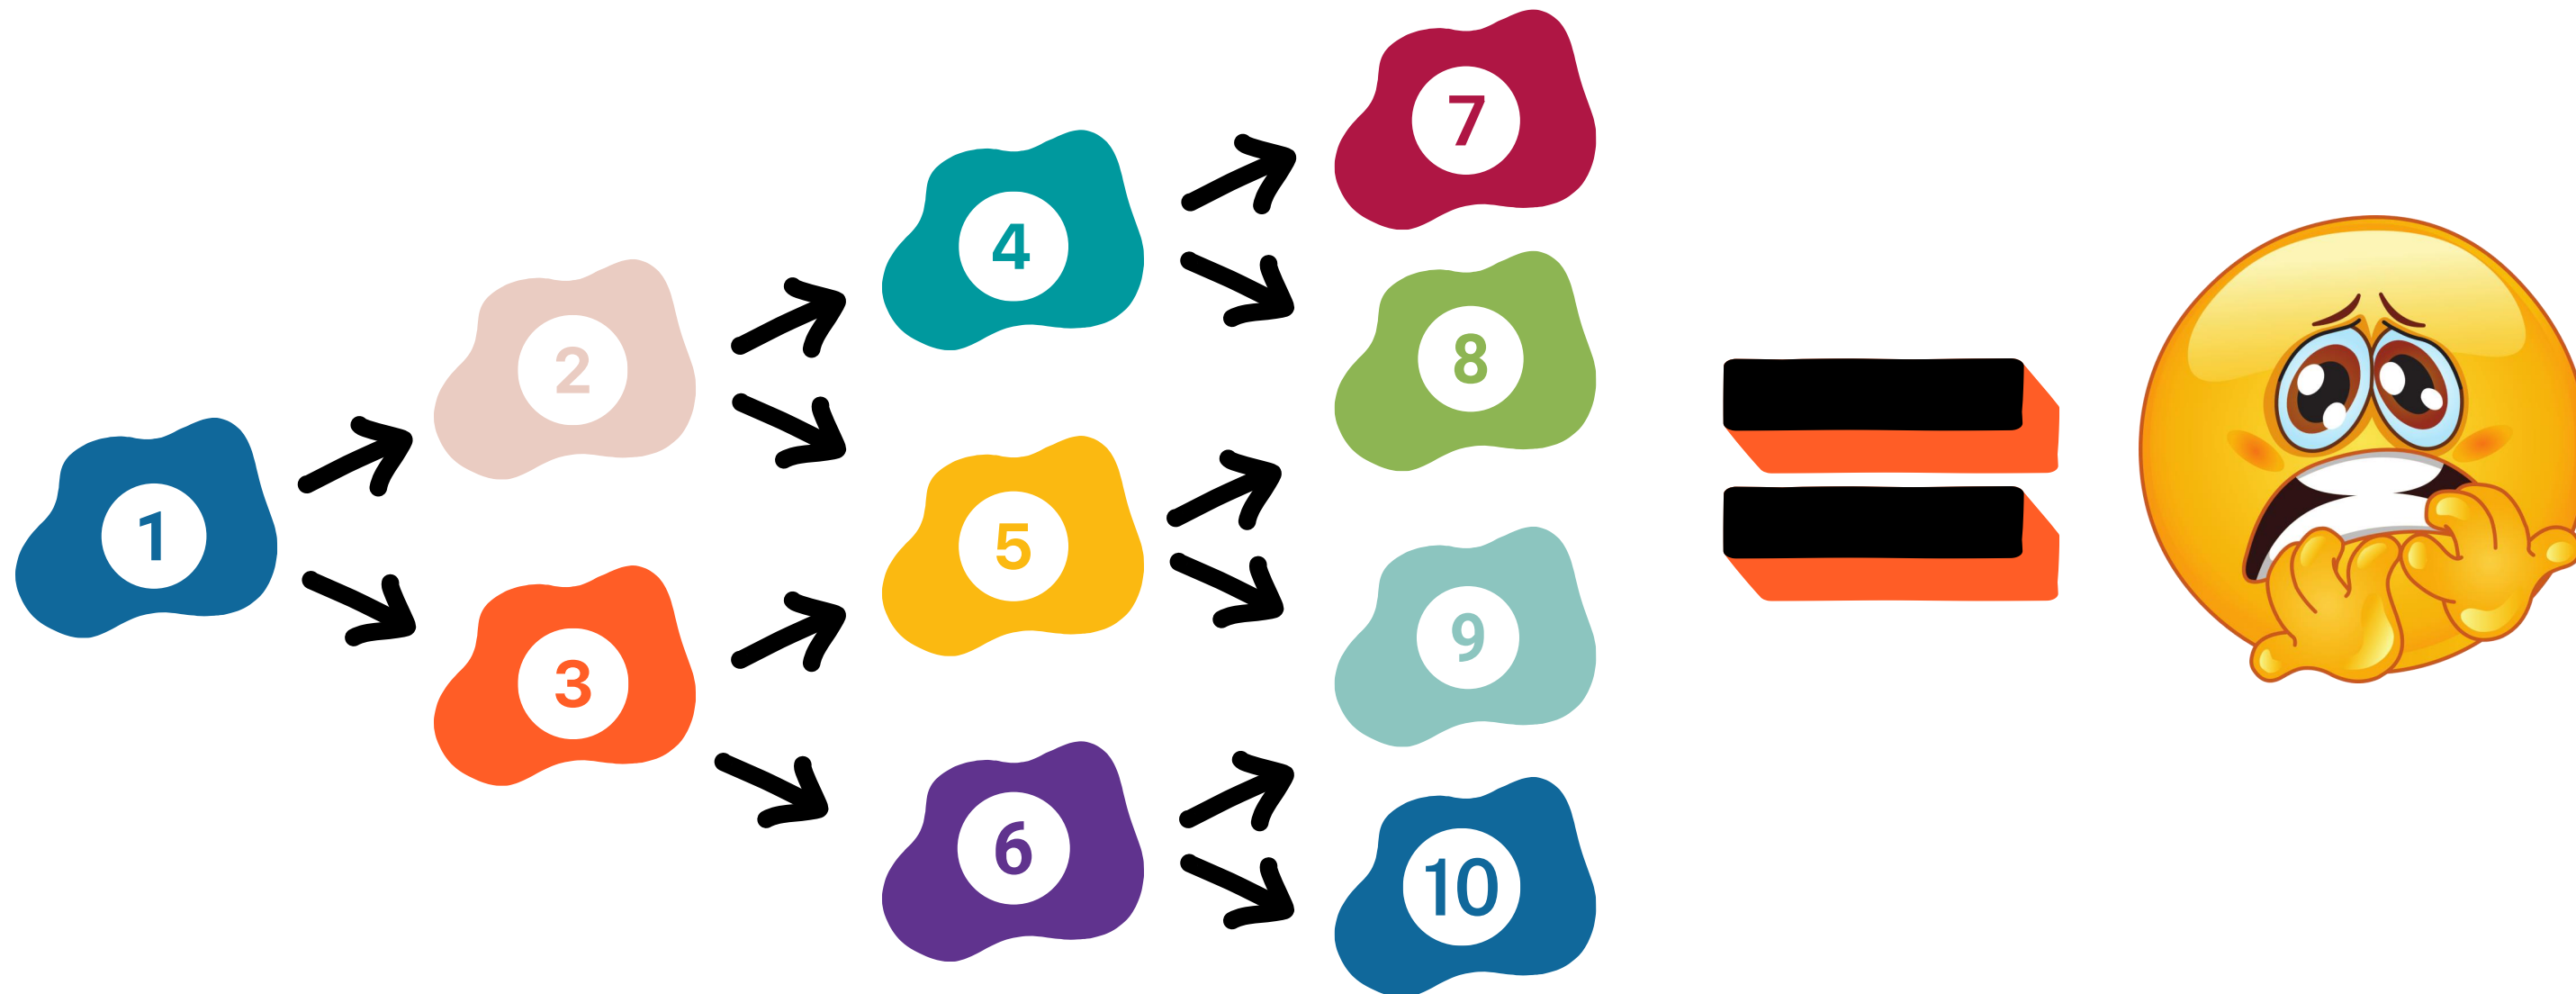

When we tell stories and are dishonest, it does not just effect us, it effects those around us too. It's called, The Ripple Effect. How do you think Ben's stories effected his family and friends?

The Lie Chain Reaction!

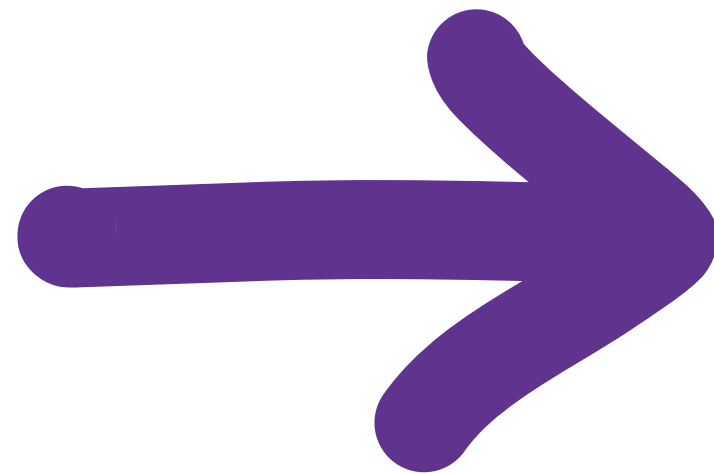

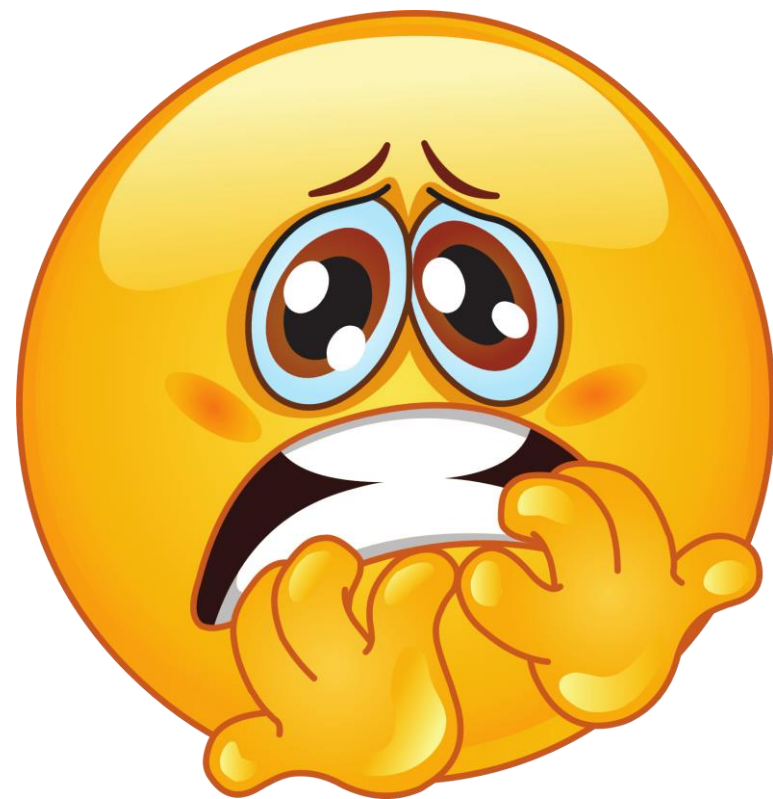

After Ben told his first story, he then started telling more and more stories - he couldn't stop! He lied so much, that those around him could not trust him anymore. When we start with one lie and then our lies keep on growing and going, this is called The Lie Chain Reaction.

*Discuss what is happening in the picture below.
Can you think of a time where you told a story and there was a lie Chain Reaction?*

Telling The Truth...

Takes us from feeling
THIS...

To THIS!!!!

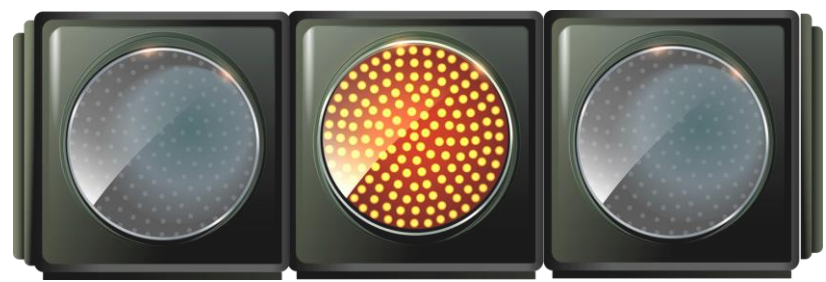

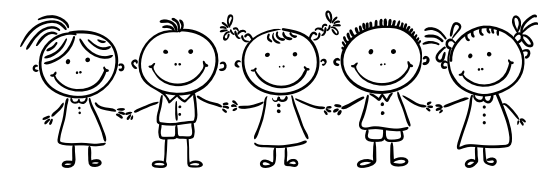

Discuss: What is happening in this picture? What are the two faces feeling and why?

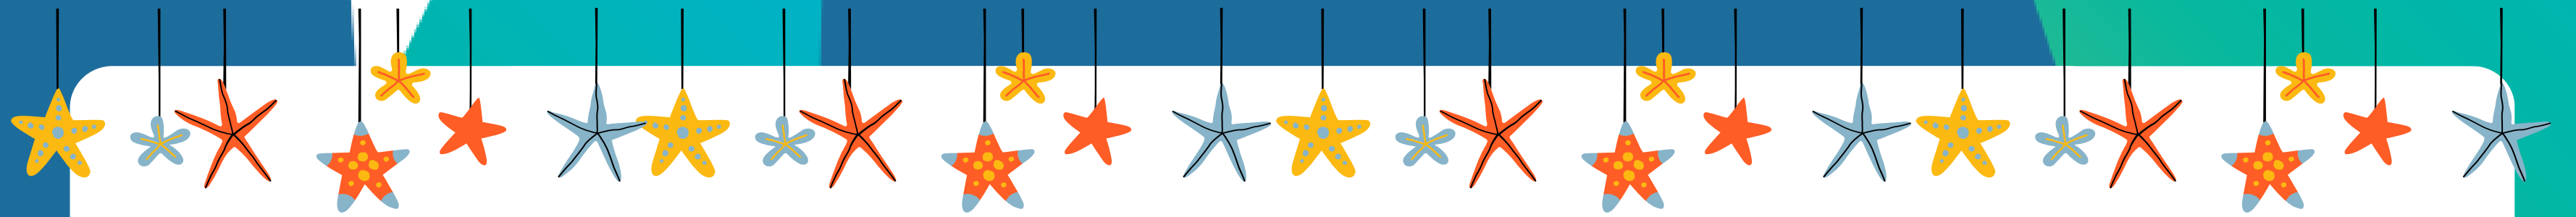

WE DO

Together

Honesty HEADS or TAILS

Read the following scenario slides. If you think the statement is honest, put your hands on your HEAD! If you think the statement is dishonest, put your hands on your TAIL!

Honest HEADS

Dishonest TAILS

HEADS or TAILS?

SCENARIO:

Nina borrowed her friends ball and did not give it back.

Honest HEADS

Dishonest TAILS

HEADS or TAILS?

SCENARIO:

Oliver realised he had taken his friends toy home after a play date. He returned it to them and apologised.

Honest HEADS

Dishonest TAILS

HEADS or TAILS?

SCENARIO:

Isobel broke her cousins favourite toy accidentally. She told her cousin that it was her and she apologised.

Honest HEADS

Dishonest TAILS

HEADS or TAILS?

SCENARIO:

Jack was invited to his friends birthday party, but pretended to be sick to go to another party.

Honest HEADS

Dishonest TAILS

YOU DO

I support

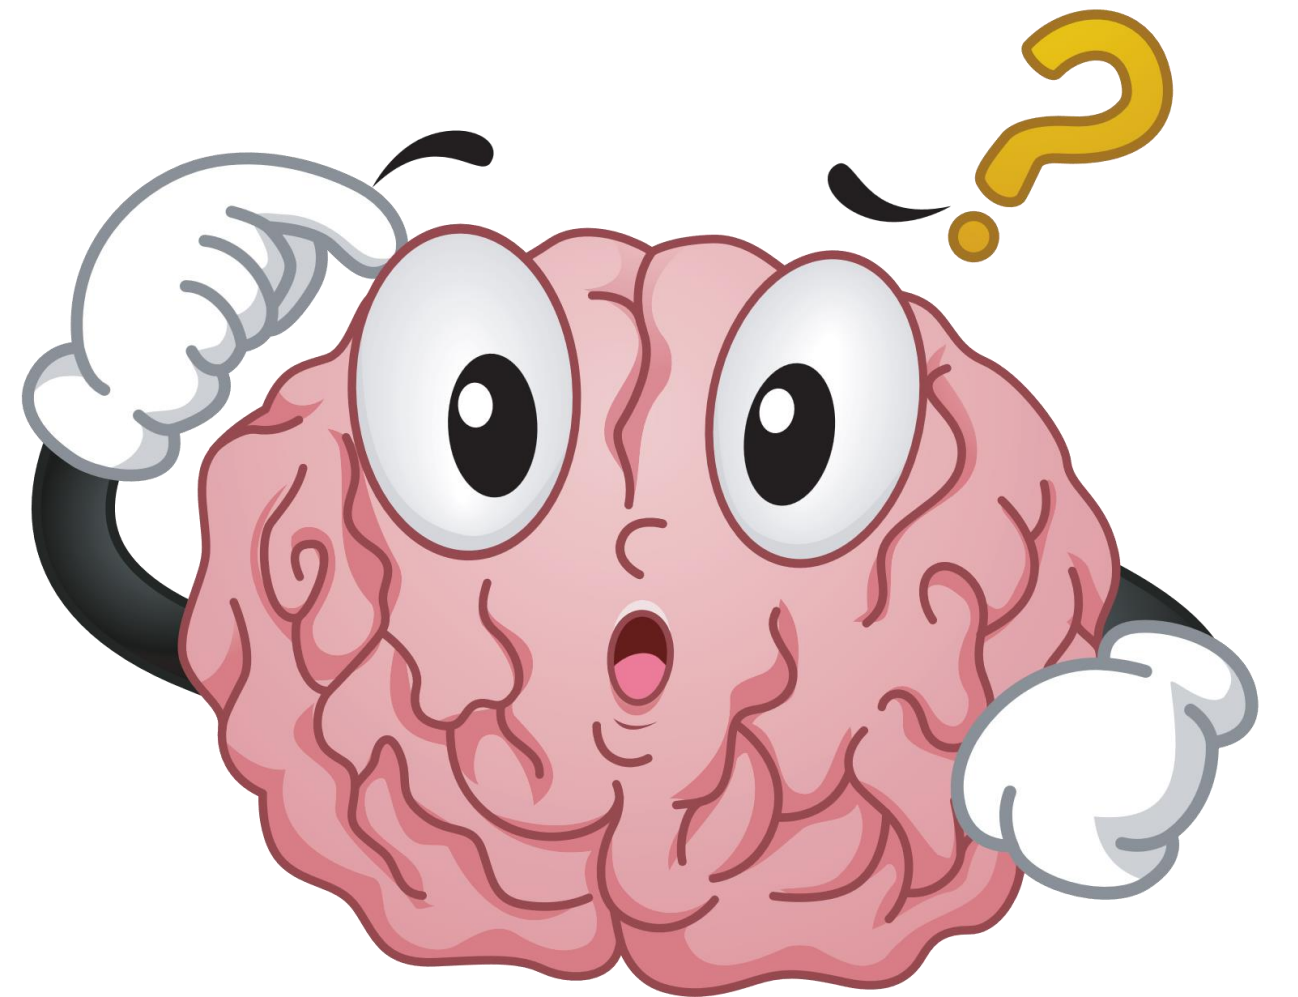

Get Sorting!

Students are to complete the scenario sort worksheet:

- Cut out all the feet with the differing scenarios on it.
- Glue the right scenario under the right heading: honest or dishonest
- Draw and write down one honest and dishonest scenario of their own choosing in the boxes.
- Early finishes can draw the scenario under the glued in scenario on the sheet

Reflection

Think Pair Share

What did you discover
about honesty
today?

Learning Intention:

I am learning about honesty

Success Criteria:

- ♥ I can give examples of what honesty is
- ♥ I can discuss why being truthful is important
- ♥ I can explain how honesty is a form of kindness

This Is Because:

- ♥ When we are honest, our friends and families trust and respect us. Honesty helps our minds and bodies feel happier too!

